REBELS DRIVEN FROM RACE TRACK ENTRENCHMENTS NEAR JUAREZ AFTER SHORT FIGHT

Negro Warriors of the 24th Infantry Lead the Charge and Cavalry in Rear Cuts Off Retreat; Many are Killed, Others Taken Prisoners.

GENERAL ERWIN WATCHES BATTLE FROM WINDOW

By Associated Press

EL PASO, Tex., June 16.—At 11 o'clock the entire Second Cavalry Brigade, composed of the Seventh and Fifth Cavalry regiments, could be seen plainly about eight miles south and west of Juarez in hot pursuit of the Villa forces which were engaged at 10 o'clock this morning in the vicinity of San Lorenzo, it was stated at military headquarters.

At 11:30 the American cavalry appeared to be gaining rapidly on the Villa band, which was making a desperate effort to reach the mountains to the southwest of Juarez. The pursuit, which started east of Juarez, swung to the west and the columns could be seen in a cloud of dust to the southwest, beyond Juarez.

EL PASO, Tex., June 16.—American troops sent into Mexico last night to stop the indiscriminate firing across the border fought their first general engagement with the Mexican rebel forces of Francisco Villa at the Juarez race track shortly after 2 o'clock this morning and the Americans were victorious. Villa's troops were driven from the race track by rifle and machine gun fire and many prisoners were reported taken by the United States cavalry, which took positions on the east and southeast of the track, according to an official report at military headquarters.

The Mexican rebels and federal troops fought in the streets of Juarez Saturday and Sunday night, many on both sides being killed. Many bullets from the rebel guns came across the Rio Grande and two persons were killed and seven wounded on the American side.

When the Mexican bullets became too thick for the safety of citizens of El Paso Brigadier General J. B. Erwin, at 11 o'clock last night, ordered American troops to cross the border and in 10 minutes after the order was issued 3,600 United States soldiers were in Mexico. The first troops to cross the border were the Fourth Battalion of the 24th Infantry, colored; a battalion of the 82nd Artillery, and the Fifth and Seventh Cavalry.

After the Mexican rebels were allowed to retire into the town of Juarez Colonel Hadsell's colored infantry opened up with a terrific rifle fire on the trenches flanking the race track. They advanced in open order and succeeded in dislodging the Villa forces who held the strongest positions, as the colored troops were forced to advance across a comparatively open plain. The first volleys from the rifleman were answered shot for shot by the Villa troops who seemed to realize they were trapped by the cavalry in the rear and the infantry in front.

American machine guns started spitting from adobe houses near the race track and the preponderance of rifle fire was soon with the American forces. The preliminary artillery preparation having been completed, the shrapnel guns became silent as the rifles took up the work. The explosion of Mauser and American cartridges could be plainly distinguished from military headquarters in the Mills building in El Paso where General Erwin was an interesting spectator from his 10th story window.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—There can be no misunderstanding between the government of the United States and Mexico regarding the movement of troops across the border at El Paso, Secretary Baker said today. The sole purpose, he said, was protection of the American side of the border and there is a distinct understanding between the governments for such action.

HICKEY IS FIFTH

Connellsville Motorist Will Be in Sheephead Races July 4.

Denny Hickey, Connellsville racer, came through fifth place in the 50-mile contest at Sheephead Bay, N. Y., Saturday.

Hickey will stay for the bigger event on July 4, the race management having paid him $1,000 to remain.

CONCERTS ARE ENJOYED

Military Band Pleases Large Crowd at Oxford Park.

In spite of the rain a large crowd enjoyed the concert of the Connellsville Military band at Oxford park, Greensburg, yesterday afternoon and evening. The band may play a return engagement later.

Several vocal selections by Miss Eleanor Savage of Pittsburg, soloist for the band, were given.

Lieut. Dilworth Back at His Desk. Lieutenant J. M. Dilworth, who returned from France as commanding officer of the Supply Company of the 110th Infantry, resumed his duties in the office of the American Manganese company at Dunbar this morning, which he relinquished when the call to service came almost two years ago.

River Rises. The Young river rose during the night from 1.20 to 1.40 feet.

PAYMENT OF ALL THE CLAIMS IN SIX MONTHS PROBABLE

Deed For Thompson Holdings Will Be Delivered Within Four Months.

OTHERS MAY BE INCLUDED

Ramers in Pittsburg Say Piedmont Coal Company Will Soon Acquire Several Tracts of Valuable Coal Adjoining the Thompson Estate.

Many matters of utmost importance to the unsecured creditors of J. V. Thompson will probably come up for consideration tomorrow when the J. V. Thompson Creditors' committee meets in Pittsburg to lend its approval to the sale of the Thompson estate to the Piedmont Coal company. While the work of the Creditors' committee may be disposed of tomorrow, it is more than likely that the committee will be in session for at least two days. Copies of the contract of sale of the Thompson properties are being prepared and will be delivered to each of the members of the Creditors' committee when it meets in Pittsburg tomorrow. Final papers completing the sale were signed at 7:50 o'clock on Saturday evening.

Payment of all secured and unsecured claims is highly probable within the next six months. The J. V. Thompson Creditors' committee and the trustees scored a distinct victory for the unsecured creditors when they provided for the payment of the $5,300,000 for the unsecured indebtedness in cash. In addition, it is understood that the underlying plan of the buyers, has provided that interest claims on the secured indebtedness will be paid in full immediately upon delivery of deed and it is not unlikely that the principal in these claims also will be paid in cash at that time or soon after. Interest on the secured indebtedness will approximate $2,500,000.

With these arrangements for cash payments, there is the prospect of a distribution of approximately $18,000,000 into this territory during the next six months.

The trustees are to deliver the deed for the properties within four months. Preparation of the deed began this morning under the direction of the trustees and the plans are for its completion, presentation to and approval by the federal courts in much less time than the four months allotted. It is altogether possible that the sale will be presented to the courts for approval before the end of the present month.

Consequently those in touch with the situation figure that within the next six months the entire cash distribution will have been made.

Rumors were circulated in Pittsburg following announcement of the closing of the sale that other deals are about to be started in which the Piedmont Coal company will become owners of other important tracts of property adjoining those just secured from the Thompson trustees.

VOLUNTEER OFFICERS

Replaced by Regulars After the Fighting Was Over, Is Charged.

LANCASTER, June 15.—Resolutions were adopted by the Sons of Veterans, at their annual convention which closed here Saturday asking Congress to investigate charges that a group of Regular Army officers in France had subjected Pennsylvania National Guard officers and other volunteer officers to humiliation by retiring them to the rear when peace and victory were in sight.

The resolutions recall that these officers had courageously from June, 1918, until a few days before the armistice was signed fought and won great battles along the western front. Their places were filled, the resolutions say, by "Regular Army officers who had never been within miles of danger, so that history might record the fact these regular officers were in command of the several regiments during the war."

DAVIDSON RESUMES

Activity With 141 Ovens After Suspension of Six Weeks.

Increased oven activity in the coke region is brought somewhat closer to Connellsville today by the firing up of 141 ovens at the Davidson plant after a suspension of six weeks. During this time a small force of men has been kept busy at repair work and in generally placing the plant in readiness to start on short notice. This came on Saturday and today the plant is taking steps to place the order in effect.

Rumors are current that a large number of ovens are to be blown in during this week but no orders to that effect have yet been issued.

BRITONS CAPTURE $50,000

Drivers of Vickers-Vimy Plane Make Atlantic Flight in 16 Hours.

LONDON IS CELEBRATING

By Associated Press.

LONDON, June 16.—London celebrated today the achievement of the two British airmen who yesterday completed the first non-stop trans-Atlantic flight, meanwhile preparing for a formal reception to the air victors, Captain John Alcock and Lieutenant W. Arthur Brown.

Formal examination of the Vickers-Vimy bombing type airplane in which the two men flew 1,650 nautical miles in 16 hours and 12 minutes from St. John's, Newfoundland to Clifden, near Galloway Island, Ireland, has been completed by aero club officials, who found the seals intact on the marked part of the aeroplane thus officially establishing the authenticity of the flight.

By completing their aerial voyage Alcock and Brown win the $50,000 prize offered by the London Daily Mail to the first accomplishing the feat.

LONDON, June 16.—The final goal of all the ambitions which flying men have ventured to dream since the Wright Brothers first rose from the earth in a heavier-than-air machine was realized Sunday when two young British officers, Captain Jack Alcock and Lieutenant Arthur W. Brown, landed on the Irish coast after the first non-stop flight across the Atlantic.

Their voyage was without accident and without unforeseen incident so far as can be learned. It was a straightaway, clean-cut flight achieved in 16 hours and 12 minutes—from Newfoundland to Clifden, Ireland, a distance of more than 1,900 miles (1,822 nautical miles).

The brief and modest description which comes from the airmen at Clifden tells of an adventurous and amazingly hazardous enterprise. Fog and mist hung over the North Atlantic, and the Vickers-Vimy biplane climbed and dove, struggling to extricate herself from the hold of the airplane's worst enemy.

She rose to 11,000 feet, swooped down almost to the surface of the sea, and at times the two navigators found themselves flying upside down only 10 feet above the water.

Before coming to earth near the Clifden wireless station, Captain Alcock circled the wireless aerials seeking the best spot to reach the earth.

ODD FELLOWS PAY HONOR TO MEMBERS DYING DURING YEAR

Eloquent Sermon Delivered at First Presbyterian Church by the Pastor, Rev. J. L. Prouditt.

About 100 Odd Fellows and their wives attended a memorial service held last evening in the First Presbyterian church. They reached the church under difficulties. Turning at the temple in South Pittsburg street the lodgemen had hardly started on their way when the storm broke in its fury and rain came down in torrents. At the Baptist church the line broke, part seeking shelter while the others plodded on.

Rev. J. L. Prouditt, the pastor, spoke on "Memorial Lives." The members of the lodge joined with the choir in singing the opening and closing odes of the lodge.

Among the Odd Fellows dying during the year were Ray Fordward, in the service; Ralph Morrison and Harry L. Moore, from influenza; A. W. Mack, in California, and I. M. Hodgkins, Perryopolis, all members of General Work lodge.

Desertion Charged.

Charging desertion April 9, 1916, Hilda J. Gilbert of Connellsville, Saturday instituted divorce proceedings in Uniontown against Edgar W. Gilbert, also of Connellsville. They were married January 21, 1914, at Buffalo, N. Y.

MUCH NEEDED RAIN COMES IN HEAVY SHOWERS

Downpour Sunday Night is Accompanied By Severe Electrical Storm.

NO GREAT DAMAGE DONE

Girl Is at Hospital Suffering from Shock When Bolt Enters Trolley Car; South Side School Building is Slightly Damaged; Storm General.

Another severe electrical storm, accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain, struck Connellsville Sunday night, following the electrical display and heavy winds from Saturday night. Not much damage from lightning was reported. The storm was general over the county and Westmoreland. Never was rain more needed by crops which were drying up from lack of moisture. This was the first real downpour here since in May.

The power service in the city, however was not affected nearly so much as that in Uniontown. Here the electric lights were off for about a minute at one time but in the county seat service was demoralized for about an hour.

West Penn car service was impaired somewhat, three being damaged by the storm. One car was damaged at Pennsville. Lightning struck a pole supporting the trolley wire and the bolt ran along the wire into the car, burning out the conduit and making some smoke.

Miss Anna Cupcheck of Broad Ford, a passenger on the car, frightened, jumped from an open window, by which she was sitting. She was taken to the Cottage State hospital for treatment. None of the other passengers attempted to leave the car and none was hurt. Miss Cupcheck is suffering from shock.

There is no danger to anyone on street cars, Daniel Durie, general superintendent, said this morning. There are excellent lightning arresters on the cars and a bolt cannot make a direct hit as the wire and trolley make the best lightning conductors. It sometimes burns out a controller or a motor but seldom is the car left entirely helpless.

The case of the car being struck at Pennsville last evening is the nearest thing to a direct hit of a trolley car that is known of, it was said today. The car was standing by the pole which was struck. Fifteen feet of the pole were torn off and the lightning ran along the wire into the car trolley.

Two other cars were also crippled by the storm, one at Mount Braddock and the other near the barns in Uniontown. Both were brought to the shops here for repairs.

Street cars are never struck by lightning, it was said today. The trolley wire prevents this. A car may be damaged, however, by lightning which enters the wire even a mile away, and get into the car by traveling along the wire and down the trolley. It is nothing unusual to have cars crippled during electric storms, it is declared.

Lightning struck the chimney on the South Side school house about 7:40 o'clock last night. It was at this time that the lights went off. Some bricks were loosened but no serious damage was done.

A bolt of lightning struck the earth between the homes of William Stillwagon and Christ Colvin in East Crawford avenue Saturday night. There is a vacant lot between the two houses and the bolt fell there. It tore up the ground somewhat. The hiss of the bolt as it fell attracted the attention of persons in the neighborhood.

The rain was welcomed by farmers and local gardeners. It was badly needed and it fell in such volume that the earth received a heavy soaking.

A storm threatened yesterday afternoon but it did not develop, passing the city. Although no lightning flashes could be seen in the black clouds to the north, loud thunderclaps indicated a heavy storm was going on somewhere.

LIEUT. COL. MARTIN OF 110TH INFANTRY GIVEN HIGH HONOR

Only Officer of 28th Division to Receive Distinguished Service Cross With Bronze Leaf for Heroism.

Lieutenant Colonel Edward Martin of Waynesburg, former commander of the 110th Infantry, 28th Division, has been awarded by the government the Distinguished Service Cross with bronze oak leaf for extraordinary heroism and efficient service while in active command of the regiment during most of its heavy fighting in France.

The honor conferred on Colonel Martin is the highest received by any officer of the 28th Division and he is the only man in the division on whom it was bestowed.

Colonel Martin was in command of the 110th Infantry during the campaign in the Argonne forest and was relieved shortly before the armistice was signed, being ordered back to America to train a new regiment for service in France. The end of the war prevented his return to the front, as was planned, as commander of a new unit.

Former members of the 110th are greatly gratified that its one-time commander was so honored.

THREE AUTOS TAGGED

Violators of the Traffic Ordinance Are Arrested.

Three arrests were made over the week-end by the police for the violation of the traffic ordinance. E. H. Frazer of this city told Acting Mayor Hoover he had been living in the city only two weeks and was not familiar with the traffic laws. Mr. Hoover, however, thought two weeks was plenty of time in which to learn such an ordinance, especially as it has been given prominence lately, and refused to refund the $2.50 forfeit.

A. Love of Smithfield, who parked his machine in North Pittsburg street from 5:15 until 5:40 o'clock, was discharged. He proved to the satisfaction of the acting mayor that he was not familiar with the parking ordinance.

A car bearing license plate No. 358450 was tagged when it stood in West Crawford avenue from 6:30 until 7:30 o'clock. The owner posted a $2.50 forfeit but did not appear for a hearing.

Auto Overturns.

While driving to Mount Pleasant along the Westmoreland road, the steering gear of the car of Harold Kritschgau refused to work and the car went over a small bank, throwing Kritschgau and Wayne Farmer, aged 10 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Farmer, out. Kritschgau escaped uninjured. A West Penn truck gathered up both Kritschgau and Farmer and brought them to a local physician's office, where it was found necessary to put several stitches in Farmer's upper right arm. He also had a large hole in his head. For a few hours it was thought that Farmer was hurt internally, but Drs. Gilbert and Wade believe that the child will now get along all right. Kritschgau, who had been overseas, had just returned to his home and was going for a ride.

Tobacco Habit Dangerous

Read The Daily Courier every day.

says Doctor Connor, formerly of Johns Hopkins hospital. Thousands of men suffering from fatal diseases would be in perfect health today were it not for the deadly drug Nicotine. Stop the habit now before it's too late. It's a simple process to rid yourself of the tobacco habit in any form. Just go to any up-to-date drug store and get some Nicotol tablets; take them as directed and lo! the pernicious habit quickly vanishes. Druggists refund the money if they fail. Be sure to read large and interesting announcement by Doctor Connor soon to appear in this paper. It tells of the danger of nicotine poisoning and how to avoid it. In the meantime try Nicotol tablets; you will be surprised at the result.—Adv.

GERMAN WAR LUST.

Commenting upon an interview with Henry Morgenthau formerly American ambassador at Constantinople, and who had recently returned from a visit to Cologne and other points in Germany, the Paris Matin makes some observations which give clearness and emphasis to the view held by many students of the Germans that they have not yet purged themselves of the lust for war. Of the mental attitude of the Germans on this subject
the Matin says:Any thought that the German people have definitely abandoned the idea of world conquest would indicate a degree of knowledge of the German frame of mind. If the Germans felt today that they had a reasonable chance of success they would not for one moment hesitate to bring another war with all of its horrors upon the world. To conquer and to loot, the world has been the thought of the whole German race for the last two generations. It has been born into the baby's life from its birth, even before its birth. It has been bred into the very bone and marrow of the German race. The recent defeat is not yet accepted by the Germans as any real defeat. All the camouflage which is being put forth as inability to pay indemnities and to meet the peace terms is hypocritical and is put out for the express purpose of creating a neurotic sympathy.It is safe to count upon the fact that German chemists will for the next few years put forth their utmost power to devise new ways of murdering men and destroying their opponents. Germany ever gave to such a task before. The spirit of the German people will live and thrive in the thought of revenge and of world conquest. In every laboratory chemists will be at work in devising new gases and new forms of destruction. And any man who thinks that Germany does not expect some day and suddenly to return to the struggle shows little understanding of the German people.Mr. Morgenthau is quoted as saying that the Germans have renounced the idea of conquering the world, but the renunciation is only for the moment.
"We have misinterpreted," said they, "and all our forces are now too much overcome to cope with them. But our children will blot out the stain, resume our interrupted work. Germany cannot remain conquered. She will find victory again and dominate the world."That such has been the temper of the Germans seems not to have been recognized by those members of the Peace Council who have persistently urged a form of peace that would impose only comparatively light penalties upon the offending nation. The peace commissioners, says the Matin, think that when they codify into formula a transaction halfway between that of dreamers among clouds and men of earthly appetites, they have created peace. They do not understand that the war has been made by the brutal will to dominate and that we will have more wars unless that will is crushed. It is not by mandates or covenants that we can transform the soul of a race of prey.Instead of realizing that the safety of the world can never be secured if Germany is not held in bondage until
a new spirit, a new life of thought,
and a new code of national morals have been developed after present ideals have been forgotten, the disposition has been to make concessions such as will serve Germany's purpose to recoup her losses and prepare for a new onslaught on civilization. That the true American point of view regarding the Germans has not been taken by our own representatives at the conference has from the beginning been the consistent contention of such able ex-ponents of Americanism as the Baltimore Record, which says:"We may count that the time is not far distant when Germany will again arise upon a world war. All the Peace Conferences and all the League of Nations which can be devised will not be sufficient to control Germany in the future days when war will be made more hideously vicious than the worst of this war by the power of science concentrating its whole energy upon the creation of methods of destroying armies and cities and nations, unless we impose upon Germany now such penalties as will make that forever impossible."America has just as hearty praise for Alcock and Brown for making the first non-stop trans-Atlantic flight as England bestowed upon Commander Byrd and the crew of the NC-4 for being the first to negotiate an all air passage.Are we due for another period of "waterfront waiting" on the Rio Grande
while Villa and his bandits shoot up American towns under the pretense of trying to "bring Carranza to order"?It seems to be only a matter of prolonging the negotiations for Germany to secure about all she wants in the peace treaty terms.As a continued story the Thompson substitutions have every claim to first place.The weatherman's good intentions in relieving the drought and tempering
the air would not have been called in question if he had been somewhat less terribly in earnest in sending last night's down-pour.Every day is home-coming day for the boys whose hearts are gladdened by a sight of the old town which never before looked quite so good.From six months in 1492 to 15 hours in 1919 is some improvement in the time for crossing the Atlantic. If Columbus were here to give his opinion on the subjectRegret at the departure of Rev. Velsor pastor of the Baptist church is not confined to the members of his own congregation neither are the well wishes for success in his new field.

When a Waist is Not a Waist.

The United Waist League is puzzled. It has a question that might have given old man Solomon pause for thought. "When is a waist not a waist? And when is a waist a blouse?"We confess we do not know at just what point a waist becomes a blouse,
but we think we know when a waist is not a waist. May be a very young waist may be a blouse or vice versa.Just as a young frog is a tadpole. Or perhaps a waist becomes a blouse after the artists who create feminine confections of this variety hang about nine dollars worth of trimmings on a dollar waist and then tag it up at the especially reduced price of $17.99.But be that as it may, we feel fully competent to judge when a waist is no longer a waist. There are many such in Harrisburg, hundreds of 'em in fact. A waist, in our opinion ceases to be a waist when it degener-ates into a mere whisp of mosquito netting designed to keep the flies away from the highly ornamental silk fingerie so many of the girls have on display these days. Then, too, there is the waist that loses its identity
when its owner snips the whole front or back away and leaves one forgetful of the dress that should have been there in embarrassment over the charms of another kind so lavishly displayed. Yes, we think we know when a waist is not a waist. It is when its presence is conspicuous by its absence, so to speak.Railroad Trainmen are Opposed to RadicalismBy W. G. Lee, President Brotherhood of Railroad TrainmenThe railway organization employees, of whom the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen represents the largest single class, are a most important part of the public. Their entire sympathies are for every public betterment, regardless of the effect it may have upon them as it pertains to their cost of living. They have long realized that any betterment that comes to any particular portion of society is only gained at the expense of all society,
but it is an evolutionary process,
which with each successive betterment affects its particular class of society and in the end benefits all society.There are labor organizations that are such in every sense, and there are other organizations that seek refuge
under the banner of labor unionism
that properly have no right to claim affiliation with labor organization, and in proof of this is their readiness to raise the red flag of anarchy and declare for the revolution at every opportunity. I want to assure you that the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen has neither part nor purpose in any scheme that proposes to destroy this government or take from any citizen either privilege or property that properly belongs to him; we have no sympathy with any plan that finds its basic purposes in the destruction of government or the organized forms of law and order; we do not subscribe to any propaganda that proposes a policy of destruction to find in a common basis of misery its expected hopes for reconstruction; we have no lost faith in our government nor in our fellow men; we know that we have in our keeping the continuity of our government, the perpetuation of our own common welfare, and we believe that it is not necessary to transplant anarchy, or an autocratic government
by a few self-selected rulers to provide over the destinies of a nation of free born American people. The very assumption of power or autocracy established by those who have superseded former governments give truth
to the assertion that in whatever changes of this kind have been made one autocracy has succeeded in which the last condition of the people was worse than the first and the very fact that a few assume to control the welfare and the destinies of the many,
sets at naught all of their pretenses
to a common rule, by the common people, for the common people.We have no part or sympathy in any of the plans that pretend the hope of the world is only to be found in its destruction. This organization of 100, 000 per cent American. Its representatives come from the two great democratic governments, the United States and Canada. We believe in the orderly processes of law that have brought our respective governments to the first place among the nations of the world.
We believe in the dependence of a continuity of these same processes of order to bring the level of the lowest to the level of the highest. We do not subscribe to any theory that proposes to throw everybody into one common slough of despond for the purpose of experimenting in the hope that out of this general mental and physical misery an average may come that will bring about a general better condition
ple. We stand for no such doctrine of destruction or ruin. We believe in the government of our representative nations and stand as 100 per cent Americans ready to defend our principles and our faith.In proof of our Americanism and our readiness to defend it are the 15,000 men of this organization who took their places willingly in the ranks of our armies, who were ready to assume all the responsibilities for protecting the government, who were ready to make the supreme sacrifice if necessary in defense of our government, our homes and our families, and almost 200 of them are resting today in the sacred soil of France in proof of their loyalty and devotion to the land they called their own.At a meeting of the quarterly conference for Dunbar held at Wakefield

Allied Operating Room

At the Theatres

THE SOISSON.

"A MIDNIGHT ROMANCE"—In
which Anita Stewart, the beautiful screen star, is seen in a dual role, is being shown today. The illusion in this first National picture is, strangely enough, heightened by interiors as wonderfully realistic as they are beautiful. Miss Stewart of graceful pose and movement interpreted with a subtlety beyond anything she has ever done. A published announcement that the wealthy Sloan family is to visit a seaside hotel attracts a clever adventurer and his accomplice, especially "Blondie Marie," through the possibility of emulating young Roger Sloan, though he is accompanied by his father, mother and sister.
About the time the adventurers arrive, the rescued passengers from a shipwrecked steamer are brought to the hotel, and one of them secures employment as a chambermaid.
"Marie," quite as susceptible as she is efficient, Marie is assigned to the floor where the wealthy Sloans and the adventurers have taken rooms.
Marie becomes infatuated with handsome Roger Sloan and is led to mistrust that "Blondie Marie" has designs on his. The maid shows keen discernment in fathoming the plot of the adventurers and finally saves the hero, but she meanwhile has a moonlight adventure. In the end it transpires that she is a princess in disguise. The grand ensemble of the ballroom is one of the best ever shown on the screen and it is shown at an angle that makes it a veritable moving tableau of beauty. A selected comedy is also being shown.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"FALSE EVIDENCE"—In which Viola Dana, the captivating Metro star, is seen as Madelon, a girl of the west, is seen in a splendid role, is being presented today. Madelon lives in a remote village, amidst the lowering redwoods, where it is the primitive custom for the parents to be-troth their daughters at birth. As Madelon grows to beautiful womanhood, the promised bride of Lot Gar-mond, she finds that she has no love for him but loves instead his cousin, Burr. Being a high spirited girl she upsets the traditions of her race and refuses to marry Lot. An unfortunate incident occurs which casts the suspicion of a terrible crime on Burr. Lot alone can clear his name and this he refuses to do unless Madelon consents to marry him. To save her lover's life she agrees, and as the way for her wedding draws near she resigns herself to her unhappy fate. At the last moment, as she has given up all hope of a release from her hateful promise an incident happens which changes the whole situation and gives her the freedom for which she has longed. The romance ends with her happy marriage to Burr. A selected comedy is also being shown. Tomorrow Alice Joyce will be featured in "The Third Degree," an interesting program.

REFLECTION

When the kids are busy swinging
On the gate and gaily singing,
While the mother's humming ditties
As she works about the place,
When I know by all the clutter
That there's nothing much the matter
I can whistle at my labor
And can keep a smiling face.Oh I'm on my toes and snappy
When the little home is happy,
And I leave them waving kisses
Through the window as I go.
When the mother isn't sighing,
And no little one is crying
It's a bright world and a good world
And a merry world I know.Oh I'm just a glass reflecting What my little brood's projecting
Just a walking living mirror
Of the home I've left behind.
If they're full of mirth and chatter
And there's nothing much the matter
Then I'm full of pep and ginger
For the tasks I chance to find.But if care I've left behind me
Then my tasks must ever find me
Lacking strength for fine endeavor
And a dreamer sore distressed,
For the strength for every battle
Comes from little children's prattle
And it's only when they're happy
That their daddy's at his best.

VICTORY.

Rejoice, oh parents of the dead!
It was for this their blood was shed
This is the gift they died to buy
Beneath a troubled foreign sky.
For Victory they marched away
And from their hands their gift receive.This is the victory they sought,
The glorious goal for which they fought!
This is the joy they wait to have!
For this glad hour they dared to die!
On loved ones now exult and take
The greatest gift that man can make!This is the triumph of your dead!
The cause for which their blood was shed!
This is the gift they went to gain
For this they braved the fields of pain!
Today the guns of hatred cease
Your gallant soldiers sleep in peace.

June
Semi-Annual
Inventory MonthReally wonderful how rapidly the six months roll around, seems only a short time ago
we were advertising December inventory, now here we are with June inventory, that means to you great bargains. It is our custom to close out certain lines at inventory time. The special lines this year consist principally of women's, misses',
and children's rainwear, with some very choice
men's and boys' suits, straw hats, and shorts.
Now when we say inventory bargains that means

CAPTAIN W. S. CRAFT, FORMER TREASURER OF FAYETTE COUNTY, DIES

Was Veteran of Civil War, Losing Leg in Conflict, and Active in Politics After War.

Captain William Steel Craft, 82 years old, former county treasurer, veteran of the Civil War and prominent in the school, political and agricultural circles of Fayette county for half a century, died Saturday evening at 7:15 o'clock at the home of his daughter, Mrs. George P. Hoover, 113 North Mount Vernon avenue, Uniontown, where he had been bedfast for six weeks.

Deceased was a son of the late Eli and Ruth Steele Craft and was born in Redstone township, February 1837, and his early life was spent here. November 15, 1865, he married Margaret, daughter of Nathaniel and Emma Johnson Graham, now deceased, he bore him eight children of whom George J. and Nathaniel G. Craft preceded their parents in death. Surviving are Mrs. A. A. Carmick of Orlando, Fla.; Mrs. Walter L. Dearth of Elizabethtown, Pa.; Mrs. H. C. Brown of Uniontown; Mrs. George J. Sheer Blouses in Russian Style

The Russian blouse has many admirers whose allegiance never fails, and every time a new interpretation of it appears on the horizon of fashion's world they give it a heartiest welcome. Just now Russian blouses are arriving in considerable force, made of sheer fabrics and of all the supple, lightweight silks that insure flowing lines. Beginning with fine net and lace the blouse proceeds through crepe, georgette and crepe de chine to silk jersey and satins that have the same softness and to the new weaves in silk that belong to the tricotee family. In all of these it proves graceful and fascinating.

Leaving out all the others and considering only the enchanting models shown in crepe georgette, we find both the plain and figured varieties used and that the charm of this beautiful fabric goes far in itself toward making the success of the blouses. This is illustrated by the two models shown in the picture for both are simply designed. A simulated vest, set in with a piping of satin, and two folds of satin about its skirt tell the brief story of decorations on the blouse of figured georgette. It is fastened at the front with small, round satin-covered buttons, set close together, and has a slash of heavy satin ribbon finished with silk fringe. The blouse has a small turtleneck collar and may be buttoned up to the throat, or left open, as pictured.

The blouse of plain georgette at the right of the picture is embellished with narrow embroidered bands. The skirt portion is uneven in length, being long at the left side and sloping upward all the way round, so that it is quite short across the back. This blouse is worn over a satin skirt with drapery that corresponds by being longer at the left than at the right side and its sleeves are finished by cuffs of the same satin. The narrow girdle is made of the georgette.

LUMBERMEN TRICK GERMAN BOMBERS

Saves Ammunition Dumps and Big Sawmills From Destruction.

YANKS PULL CLEVER STUNT

Electric Lights Strung in Woods Mislead Huns—World's Biggest Regiment Cut 3,000 Cords of Wood a Day for Fuel.

Washington.—How the Twentieth, the biggest regiment in the world, made up of lumbermen and foresters, fooled the Germans and saved ammunition dumps and big sawmills from the Hun bombers, is told by Percival Sheldon Rhoades, secretary of the American Forestry association, of Washington, who recently returned from a three-month tour of France, Belgium and England investigating the forest losses of these countries. The association has planned to aid in the reforestation of these countries, also, if Italy.

Feared the Huns. "The biggest mills operated by the Twentieth regiment," says Mr. Rhoades, "were at Belorain, in the forests of Argonne. These were situated near big ammunition dumps, and as the plant was run all day and all night, being electrically lighted, it made a very good target. The mills were bombed several times, but none of the workers was injured nor was much damage done, and finally a real American trick resulted in so mistaking the German bombers that the danger was entirely overcome. This trick was devised by Major Spencer, who, realizing that the electrically lighted mill was a bright target for the German bombers, ran electric wires into the heavy woods for a distance of one-third of a mile from the mill and installed a number of electric lights on the trees. Whenever an alarm of an air raid came, the lights of the mill were extinguished and the lights among the trees one-third of a mile from the mill were lighted by switching on the current and were kept blazing while the Germans wasted bombs on them and inflicted damage only on some of the trees."

"Other mills up along the fighting front were also bombed frequently, but without serious damage."

Operates Many Mills. Continuing his statement about some of the wonders accomplished by this regiment of lumbermen and foresters during the war, Mr. Rhoades writes in the American Forestry Magazine:

"The regiment was composed of 49 companies of approximately 350 men each, divided into 14 battalions and having connected with it 38 engineer service companies or labor troops. It was organized originally to contain 48 companies, but the forty-ninth was added in France, being composed of members of the New England saw-mill unit who had spent almost two years in cutting in the Scotch forests. Three officers and 90 men volunteered as a nucleus of this company. The full complement was secured by getting men from other organizations."

"The chief forest cutting of the regiment was in the Vosges section, with Epinal as headquarters. At Belorain, in the forests of Argonne, was the largest single installation, a mill capable of shipping, as it did, an average of 5,000 ties a day. This mill furnished duck boards, bridge timbers, piles and poles, etc., for the First and Second armies."

"At the time the armistice was signed, the regiment had 81 lumber mills in operation and 12 more being installed."

The contingent with the First and Second American armies at the fighting front managed to secure and maintain a production of about 3,000 cords of wood a day, which supplied fuel for approximately 1,000,000 troops."

PLAN TO KEEP FAMOUS SHIPS

Project Being Considered to Mount Revolutionary Vessels on Concrete Foundations.

Washington.—Plans for bringing two famous old ships of the navy, the Constitution and the Hartford, to Washington to be set on permanent concrete foundations in the tidal basin in Potomac park and thus preserved, are being considered by Acting Secretary Roosevelt in connection with a survey now being made of the Hartford for repairs.

It is expected the survey board will recommend that a newer vessel than Admiral Farragut's flagship be placed as receiving ship at the Charleston navy yard. The Constitution is at Newport, R. I., and the Hartford, at the Boston yard, are the only survivors of the navy of revolutionary days.

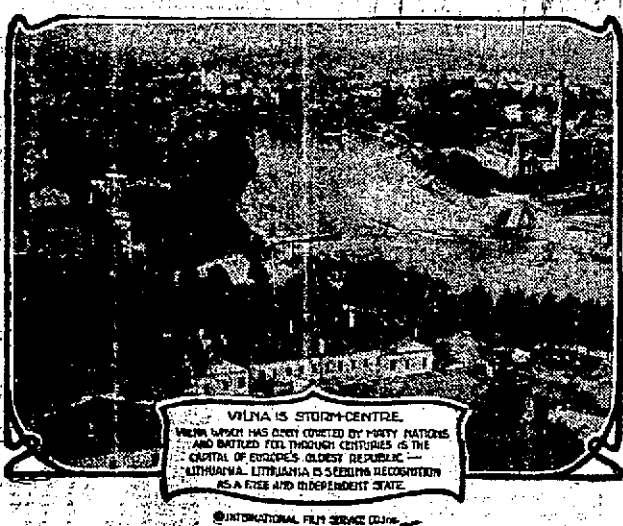

Mr. Roosevelt does not anticipate that the people of New England would agree to the removal of the Constitution to Washington, and therefore has not considered gathering all three of the famous old ships at the national capital.

FIND LUBRICATING FAILURE

Car Owner Should Emulate Example of Locomotive Engineer by Using Hand to Find Trouble.

The locomotive engineer frequently uses his hand to determine lubrication failure, and this is a hint that the car owner can put to good use. Failure of lubrication permits excessive friction, and friction generates heat. Any part which is discovered to be too hot to the hand held near it is probably suffering from faulty lubrication.

Indian Leaves War Dress to Museum

New York.—The American Museum of Natural History has recently received as a bequest the complete Indian dress costume of Chief Don White Eagle, a Cheyenne Indian, who died in France while serving as a soldier in the United States army. Chief White Eagle, who was twenty-nine, served with the infantry forces. He was one of four brothers fighting in France. He was a skilled sharpshooter and was commended by his general for bravery. He died October 21, 1918, of pneumonia.

The costume consists of a large feather war bonnet, fringed shirt and leggings, moccasins, pipe, bag and feather-trimmed standard. All the feather work was done by White Eagle himself. It was lost when during the third Liberty Loan drive when White Eagle appeared as a speaker.

FLATTERY MAY SELL COAT

But Payment May Be Lacking, Case in San Francisco Justice Court Reveals.

San Francisco.—A short stout woman who has been flattered into purchasing a coat that is suitable for a tall slender woman does not have to pay for it, according to a decision by Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Prendergast recently.

The decision was given in an action brought to collect $50 from Mrs. J. C. Lewis, a nurse at Letterman General Hospital, Presidio.

According to the testimony of Mrs. Lewis and Sgt. George A. Monroe of the Presidio, who accompanied her when she purchased the coat, the salesman guaranteed that it would be suitable.

She was somewhat dubious because it seemed rather short.

Mrs. Lewis put the coat on in court and paraded about. As she did so, she remarked:

"You will notice that I am short and stout, judge. Also you will notice that coat comes just below my knees. Now a coat that length makes a short stout woman look even more dumpy than she really is, don't you think so?"

"Yes, that coat is plenty too short for you," said the court, who is a married man. "Judgment for Mrs. Lewis."

BRITISH PLAN FOR AIR MAILS

Newspapers Claim Supremacy in Commercial Development of Airplanes.

London.—The British press generally assumes that the commercial development of the airplane is much further advanced in Great Britain than in any other country. According to the American chamber of commerce in London, a mail service from Cairo to India already has been surveyed and a route from Cairo to the Cape of Good Hope is being laid out.

Aerodromes are to be established at suitable spots in the British Isles and British possessions and equipped with sound and light signals, balloons, aerial buoys, and wireless telegraph and telephone outfits.

"Already cargo airplanes are in sight," the chamber of commerce announces. "A huge British seaplane of novel type, equipped with five motors, has been flown, carrying six tons, at 100 miles an hour. Experiments are being made with another having a carrying capacity of nine tons."

NEAR PUNCTUAL, AS IT WERE

Two Neat Explanations of Train Schedules That Are About the Best of Their Kind.

Railways have had their troubles during these amazing years of world war and continental congestion; so, consequently, have passengers. On a rickety-rackety, half-forgotten little branch line to nowhere in particular, not long ago, a long, lank, lazy Yankee station master, with an Uncle Sam goatee, mentioned those mighty and historic obstacles in excuse for the lateness of a certain two-car train, for which an impatient salesman of agricultural implements was waiting. But although he offered an excuse, he did not enjoy doing so, and concluded his remarks by announcing resentfully:

"She'll be in before long, and before long oughter be soon enough for reasonable folks. If she's in 'at' nowadays she'd oughter be cheered, and no feller with a grain of common sense nor patience has any call to growl at she's 'thereabouts'."

In the amiable South a world war is not necessary to evoke an even greater superiority to petty uncertainties of time. The colored man in charge of a southern waiting room, in a place by no means a village, was heard explaining the local electric car connections with the nearest city.

"Cars run on de hour, gentlemen," he told two inquirers, with a beaming smile; and added confidentially, "Co'se dey's times 'tata' on de hour jes' peckably to de minute. Sometimes dey starts a 't' bit after, and sometimes, 'en dey's a hot box, dey's so much after dey's de same as a 't' bit befo'; but mos' generally, gentlemen, dey gits away jes' about."

MORE LIKE GODS THAN TREES

Impressive Tribute Paid by English Poet to the Giant Redwoods of California.

John Masfield, the English poet, contributed the following impression of the giant trees of California to the Revue, a new paper devoted to disbelievers and soldiers: "They are not like trees; they are like spirits. The gleam in which they grow are not like places; they are like haunts of centaurs or of the gods. The trees rise up with dignity, power and majesty, as though they had been there forever. They are the oldest living things. Even the young ones were two thousand or three thousand years old, and many of these grew from the visible ruins of others, which may have been saplings seven thousand years ago. Sometimes in the midst of one feels the awe and the majesty of columns. These columns were more impressive than anything of stone; these columns were alive. They were more like gods than anything I have ever seen. They seemed to be thinking. One felt that presently they would march to wipe out everything mean or base or petty here on earth. The stars shone about their heads like chaplets."

Find Brother's Grave

Rayford of Horton, Va., member of Company B, 157th Infantry, had the sad experience of finding the grave of his brother, William Bryan Noel. William was reported missing October 2, and no other word had been received concerning him. Ray thought his brother had been invalided home. He was engaged in the work of finding graves in the Argonne when the brother's grave was found.

That Kind

FREE SUMMER COURSE IN MINING TO BE GIVEN AT PENNA. STATE COLLEGE

Designed Especially to Fit Young Men for Passing Examinations for Mine Foremen and Other Positions.

An intensive course of six weeks in the study of branches relating to mining, which is designed to fit young men to serve as mine foremen or fire bosses and other special lines of mine work, will begin in the school of mines at Pennsylvania State College June 23.

The course will include such subjects as ventilation, mine gases, timbering, hoisting, hauling, mine rescue and first aid with related subjects, explosives, mine management, Pennsylvania mining law, and such other subjects as it shall seem wise to include.

There will be no charge for tuition, the only expense to students being for transportation to and from the college and board and lodging while there. The favorable location of State College makes it a very desirable place to conduct a special school of this kind during hot weather.

This will be the first class of the kind at State College, and the success of the new venture is dependent, of course, upon the response of the men of the State ambitious enough to avail themselves of this rare opportunity.

This is the first time young men of the mining regions have had the opportunity to make special preparation for advancement in their work. Usually men with ambition fit themselves for mine foremen examinations by a long drawn out course of night or correspondence school study; but by the intensive course method now offered free by State College men will be able by close application for six weeks to prepare themselves for such examinations.

Detailed information as to the course of study—to be pursued can be secured upon application to E. S. Moore, Dean, School of Mines, State College, Pa.

"Are you going after it?" he laughed. "Oh, well," I replied. "I am going on a duck-shooting trip to Andros before long, and I thought I might drop around to your way and pick a few of them up for you."

"It would be mighty kind of you, but they're not easy to find. I'll tell you exactly," he went on, dear fellow, into the minutest description of the habits of the ducks. While all the time I was eager to push off to Charles Webster and John Saunders and shout into their ears—as later I did at the first possible moment—that evening: "I've found our missing cat! Short Shrift Island is—"

(I mentioned the name of a cat, which was the case of "Dead Man's Shoes," I am unable to divulge.)

"Maybe," said Charlie. "Maybe we can try it. But," he added, "did you find out anything about Tobias?"

CHAPTER II.

In Which I Am Afforded Glimpses Into Futurity—Possibly Useful.

Two or three evenings before we were due to sail, at one of our anguished convalescences, I put the question whether anyone had ever tried the diving rod for treasure in the islands. Old John nodded and said he knew the man I wanted, a crazy old negro back there in Grand's town—the negro quarter spreading out into the brush behind the ridge on which the town of Nassau proper is built.

"He calls himself a 'king,'" he added, "and the natives do, I believe, regard him as the head of a certain tribe. The lady calls him Old King Coffee—a memory I suppose of the Ashantee war. Anyone will tell you where he lives. He has a name as a preacher—among the Holy Jampers—but he's getting too old to do much preaching nowadays. Go and see him for fun anyway."

So next morning I went. I had hardly been prepared for the plunge into "Darkest Africa" which I found myself taking, as, leaving Government house behind, perched on the crest of its white ridge, I walked a few yards inland and entered a region which, for all its green palms, made a similar, sudden impression of pervading blackness on the mind which one gets on suddenly entering a coal-mining district after traveling through fields and meadows.

There were far more blacks than whites down on Bay street, but here there were nothing but blacks on every side.

The roads ran in every direction, and along them everywhere were figures of black women shuffling with burden on their heads, or groups of girls audaciously merry, most of them bonny, here and there almost a beauty. There were churches and dance halls and saloons—all radiating, so to say, a prosperous blackness.

At first the effect of the whole scene was a little sinister, even a little frightening. The strangeness of African jungle, was here, and one was a white man in it all alone among grinning savage faces. But for the figures about one being clothed, the illusion had been complete; but for that and the kind-hearted salutations from "comely white-turbaned mammoths"

This He Appeared to Be Reading With Great Solemnity.

which soon sprang up about me, and the groups of elderly children, that laughingly blocked one's progress with requests—not in any "wild" African dialect but in excellent English—for "a copper, please."

This request was not above the maidenly dignity of quite big and buxom lassies. One of these, a really superb young creature, asked for "a copper, please," but with a stately coquetry besting her addressee.

"I'll give you one if you'll tell me where the king lives," said I.

"Oh, King Coffee?" she asked, and then fell into a very agreeable negro laughter. Recovering, she put her finger to her lips, suggesting silence, and said:

"Come along, I'll show you!" And walking by my side, little as a young animal, she had soon brought me to a cabin much like the rest, though perhaps a little poorer-looking. "Shh! There he is!" and she shook all over again with suppressed giggles. I gave her a sixpence and told her to be a good girl. Then I advanced up a little strip of garden to where I had caught a glimpse of a venerable white-haired negro seated at the window, as if for exhibition, with a great open book in his hands. This he appeared to be reading with great solemnity, through enormous goggles, though I thought I caught a side-glance of his eye, as though he had taken a swift reconnoitering glance in my direction—a glance which apparently had but deepened his attention and increased the dignity of his demeanor.

Remembering that he was not merely royal but pious also, I made my salutation at once courtier-like and sanctimonious.

"Good day to your majesty," I said. "God's good, God looks after his servants."

"De Lord is merciful," he answered gravely. "God takes care of his children. Be seated, sir, and please excuse my not rising; my rheumatism is a sore affliction to me."

I was not long in getting to the subject of my visit. The old man listened to me with great composure, but with a marked accession of mysterious importance in his manner.

"It's true, sir," he said, when I had finished, "I could find it for you. I could find it for you, sure enough; and I'm de only man in all de islands dat could. But I should have to go wid you, and it's de Lord's will to keep me here in dis chair wid rheumatism. De gods has turned in dese old hands many a time, and I have faith in de Lord dey would turn again—yes, I'd find it for you, sure enough. I'd find it if any man could—and it was de Lord's will. But maybe I can see it for you widout moving from dis chair."

"Do you mean, brother, that the Lord has given you second sight?"

"Dat am it! Glory to his name, hal-luh-luh!" he answered. "I look in a glass ball—so; and if de spirit helps me, I can see clear as a picture far under de ground—far, far away over de sea. It's de Lord's truth, sir, please be his name!"

I asked him whether he would look into his crystal for me. With a burst of profanity, as unexpected as it was vivid, he cursed "dem boys" that had stolen from him a priceless crystal which once had belonged to his old royal mother, who, before him, had had the same gift of the spirit. But, he added—turning to a table by his side, and lifting from it a large cut-glass decanter of considerable capacity, though at present void of contents—that he had found, that gazing into the large glass ball of its stopper produced almost equally good results at times.

First he asked me to be kind enough to shut the door.

We had to be very quiet, he declared; the spirit could work only in deep silence. And he asked me to be kind enough to close my eyes. Then, he heard his voice, muttering, in a strange tongue, a queer dark goblinish kind of words, which may have been ancient African spell-words, or sheer gibberish such as magicians in all times and places have employed to mystify their consultants.

I looked at him through the corner of my eye—as doubtless he had anticipated, for he was glancing with an air of inspired abstraction into the ball of his decanter-stopper. So we sat silent for I suppose some ten minutes. Then I heard him give another deep sigh. Opening my eyes I saw him slowly shaking his head.

"De spirits don't seem communicable dis afternoon," he muttered tilting the decanter slightly on one side and observing it dourly.

"Do you think, your majesty?" I asked with as serious a face as I could assume, "the spirits might work better—if the decanter were to be tilted?"

"Maybe, sir; maybe. Spirits is curious things; dey need inspiration sometimes, just like ourselves."

"What kind of inspiration do you think gets the best results, your majesty?"

"Well, sir, I can't say as dey is very particular, but I've noticed dey do seem powerful 'fined to just plain good old Jamaica rum."

"They shall have it," I said.

I had noticed that there was a saloon a few yards away, so before many more minutes had passed I had been there and come back again, and the decanter stood ruddily filled, ready for the resumption of our seance.

Before we began I of course accepted the severe invitation to join him and the spirits in a friendly libation.

Then I having closed my eyes—we began again, and it was astonishing with what rapidity the thick-coping pictures began to crowd upon that inner vision with which the Lord had endowed his faithful followers.

Of course I was inclined now to take the whole thing as an amusing imposture; but presently, watching his face and the curious "seeing" expression of his eyes, and noting the exactitude of one or two pictures, I began to feel that, however much he might be inventing or elaborating, there was some substratum of truth in what he was telling me.

The first pictures that came to him were merely pictures, though astonishingly clear ones, of Webster's boat, the "Fleming," of Webster himself, and of the men and the old dog Sailer; but in all this he might have been visualizing from actual knowledge. Yet the details were curiously exact. Presently his gaze becoming more fixed:

"I see you anchored under a little settlement. You are rowing, ashore. Dey are little pathways running up among de coral rock, and a few white houses. Seems to be a forest; big trees—not like Nassau trees—and thick brush everywhere; all choked up so thick and dark, can't see nut'n. Wait a minute, dough. Dere seems to be old houses all sunk in and los, like old ruins. Can't see dem for de brush. And wait—Lord love you, sir, but I see afloat—I seem to see a big light coming up through de brush from far under de ground—just like you see old rotten wood shining in de dark—deep, deep down. Didn't I tell you, de Lord gave me eyes to see into de bowels of de earth?—It's de bowels of de earth for sure—all lit up and shining. Praise de Lord—it am de gold, for certain, all hidden away and shining dere under de ground."

"Can't you see it closer, clearer?" I exclaimed, involuntarily, "get some idea of the place it's in?"

The old man gazed with a renewed intensity.

"No," he said presently, and his disappointed tone seemed to me the best evidence yet of his truth, "I only see a little golden mist deep, deep down under de ground; now it is fading away. It's gone; I can only see de woods and de palms again."

This brought his visions to an end. The spirits obstinately refused to make any more pictures, though the old man continued to gaze on in the decanter stopper for fully five minutes.

CHAPTER III.

In Which We Take Ship Once More.

The discovery which—through my friend the dealer in "marine curiosities"—I had made, or believed myself to have made, of the situation of Henry P. Tobias's second "pod" of treasure, fitted exactly with Charlie Webster's wishes for our trip, small stock as he affected to take in it at the moment.

"Short Shrift Island" lay a few miles to the northwest of Andros Island. Now Andros is a great haunt of wild fowl, not to speak of that more august bird, the flamingo. Attraction number one for the good Charlie. Then, though it is some hundred and fifty miles long, and some fifty miles broad at its broadest, it has never yet, it is said, been entirely explored.

Its center is still a mystery. The natives declare it is haunted, or at all events inhabited by some strange people no one has yet approached close enough to see. You can see their houses, they say, from a distance, but as you approach them, they disappear. Here, therefore, seemed an excellent place for Tobias to take cover. Charlie's duck-shooting preserves, and less marl lakes islanded with mangrove copes, lay on the fringe of this mysterious region. So Andros was plainly marked out for our destination.

Sailor had watched his master getting his guns ready for some days, and, doubtless, memories stirred in him of Scotch moors they had shot over together. He raised his head to the night wind and sniffed impatiently, as though he already scented the wild luck on Andros island. He was impatient, like the rest of us, because, though it was an hour past sailing time, we had still to collect two of the crew. The two loafers turned up at last, and all preliminaries being at length disposed of, we threw off the hooding ropes and presently there was heard that most exhilarating of sounds to anyone who loves seafaring, the rippling of the ropes through the blocks as our mainsail began to rise up high against the moon which was beginning to look out over the huge block of the Colonial hotel, the sea wall of which ran along as far as our mooring. A few lights in its windows here and there broke the blank darkness of its facade, glimmering through the avenues of royal palms. I am thus explicit because of something that presently happened and which stayed the mainsail in its rippling ascent.

A tall figure was running along the sea wall from the direction of the hotel, calling out, a little breathlessly, in a rich young voice as it ran:

"Wait a minute there, you fellows! Wait a minute!"

We were already moving, parallel with the wall, and at least twelve feet away from it, by the time the figure, that of a tall boy, corset-busted and picturesquely outlined in the half light—stopped just ahead of us. He raised something that looked like a bag in his right hand, calling out "Catch" as he did so; and, a moment after, before a word could be spoken,

Before a Word Could Be Spoken, He Took a Flying Leap.

he took a flying leap and landed amongst us, plump in the cockpit and was clutching first one of us and then the other, to keep his balance.

LIVE IN PRACTICAL SLAVERY

Esthonians Little Better Than Serfs to the Germans, Who Own Nine-Tenths of Land.

Esthonians, or Esths, who have repulsed repeated attacks from the Bolsheviks, and recently drove a force under Trotsky to ignominious flight, are described by Dr. Edwin A. Grosvenor in a National Geographic society bulletin as follows:

The Esths are a Finno-Ugric people, once savage and adventurous, terrifying the Baltic with their piracy, constantly attacking and attacked by the Danes and Swedes. Their final subjection by the Brothers of the Sword, and their enforced acceptance of Christianity crushed their spirit and rendered them serfs to the German masters.

The Esths outnumber the Germans in the old province of Esthonia 20 to 1; yet nine-tenths of all the land is held by Germans.

In the former province of Livonia the Esths constitute nearly half the population, while the Germans are less than one-fifth. There the land is divided into estates averaging over ten thousand acres in extent, none owned by an Esth or Lett but almost invariably by a German.

The Russian government at times endeavored by agrarian laws to alleviate the condition of the peasant. Such efforts failed against the solid resistance of the great proprietors.

The Esths have clung devotedly to their national language, the sole inheritance from their past. They love poetry and song. Their physical characteristics are Finnish; their faces short, broad, beardless; their foreheads low, mouths small, arms long, legs short. Despite their extreme poverty, education is relatively advanced. All but 4 per cent are Lutheran Protestants.

Since the sudden universal awakening in 1913 the Esths have been insistent upon national recognition. But ownership in the land is their greatest need.

WHEN FLYING IS UNIVERSAL

Some Highly Interesting Legal Problems That Will Call for Intelligent Settlement.

A series of interesting questions has been made concerning contingencies that may be expected when the air is actually used for miscellaneous traffic. How, for example, will the man on the ground be protected against carelessness by the man in the air, and what kind of sign can the airplane carry which will serve to identify it if some such man wishes to lodge a complaint with the authorities? Or again, what will be the rights of the proprietors of a baseball park if an aviator evades the price of admission by flying about over the diamond? Or what will be the remedy of the man who is kept awake at night by airplane motors? What will be the limit of the private citizen's property measured perpendicularly, and how can he tell whether or not an airman is trespassing? Such questions are amusing to read, but in all seriousness they mean that the legal problems that will come up with the increasing use of airplanes will require ingenuity for settlement.

NEW SHIP LINE PLANNED

American Financiers Will Aid Japanese Capitalists in Project.

J. P. Morgan and other financiers have promised to join Japanese capitalists in the organization of a new steamship corporation, according to Kotaro Mochizuki, member of the Japanese parliament.

Mr. Mochizuki said probably $200,000,000 of American and Japanese money would be invested in the new venture. Although details have not been arranged, he said, the concern probably would be called the American Japanese Steamship company, and will buy and build boats and operate them on all the world's important, ocean traffic lanes. One line will run from Seattle, Wash., to the Orient.

Kisses and Beards.

It is so easy to understand what the Americans say, because they talk so loud—it is not the same loudness as of the French, and one day I have laughed to hear in a "bus how girls of the Y. M. C. A. have talked. There was one who was not at all pretty, except to be young, who has regarded a French gentleman who wore his beard long. "Look," she said, "what a horrible beard. Imagine to be kissed by any one like that. Then they have both laughed."

The other one has said then: "I suppose his grandfather wore his beard long, so he does the same," and the first one has replied: "Yes, it is always like that. What was good enough for your grandfather in France is good enough for you."

I was not angry to hear them speak so, because, you know, they were very ignorant. For me, I do not think that they have known very much the emotion of to be kissed, or they would have understood that it is not whether or not one has a beard that makes the difference—London Bytander's Paris Letter.

Old Camp Beef Good.

Maj. John M. Gould of Chicago tells of opening a large can of roast beef 3 1/2 inches in diameter by 2 1/2 inches deep which had been on the top shelf of the pantry, as he remembers, since 1872, and finding it perfectly good, although the fat was slightly discolored by rust, of which there was a little inside the can.

Concerning Toll Service

Under the schedules of toll and long distance telephone rates now applying to messages originating and terminating within Pennsylvania several classes of service are offered. These classes of service are the same as those which, since January 21, 1914, have been available for messages from points in Pennsylvania to points in other states. The following explanation of the various classes of toll service will aid telephone users in determining the class of service best fitted for their needs and will explain the methods of making the several kinds of calls.

The "station to station" rate is the base rate upon which all rates for the various classes of service offered, are computed. This rate is determined by the air line distance between toll points and is computed, for the initial period, on the basis of 5c for each 6 miles up to 24 miles and 5c for each 8 miles beyond that distance.

For toll calls where the calling party does not specify a particular person to be reached at the called telephone, "station to station" rates are charged.

For toll calls where the calling party does specify a particular person to be reached at the called telephone and the connection is established and conversation held with that person, "person to person" rates are charged. As this service requires a greater amount of operating effort, the rate for such calls is about one-fourth greater than the "station to station" rate. The minimum "person to person" rate is 20c.

Toll calls involving an appointment to talk at a specified time, or involving the use of messenger service to secure attendance of a designated person at a public telephone at a distant point may be made at rates usually about one-half greater than the "station to station" rate, plus the cost of messenger service. The minimum rate for such calls is 25c.

The "station to station" rates are substantially lower than the "person to person" rates. In order that patrons may effect the greatest economy in their charges for toll service, and also maximum speed of connections, they are urged to study their toll service requirements and to make the widest possible use of "station to station" calls.

WINNING HURLER IS PENNANT CONTENDER

So Declares John McGraw, Manager of New York Giants.

Hugo Bezdek, Leader of Pirates, Declares Club Must Have More Than One Winning Pitcher—Problem Open for Discussion.

Baseball managers do not lamp the possibilities of a ball club in the same manner. At the January pow-wow in New York, some of the major league clubs were discussing pennants and pennant chances. John McGraw of New York started a live discussion when he declared one winning pitcher can make a flag contender out of an otherwise mediocre club. McGraw's views were shared by some of the leaders, but Hugo Bezdek of the Pittsburgh Pirates does not accept the McGraw dogma.

McGraw pointed to the success of the Giants when he had none other than Matthewson to depend upon for mound duty. He also recalled the John McGraw.

Washington club's success each season for the last few years with only Walter Johnson to star on the rubber. These cases, according to McGraw, are good grounds for his argument.

Bezdek declared a ball club must have something more than good pitching from one pitcher, and he backs his argument with the story of Wild Bill Donovan's work for the Pirates last season. Cooper lost nearly all of his games by one run simply because the Pirates did not have the necessary punch to aid him with a run or two, says Bezdek, and the speech sounds reasonable, too.

The argument was not ended in the one session, but there is much evidence on both sides that is deserving of serious consideration. McGraw's contention that a winning pitcher gives a club 25 per cent more confidence may be logical, but as Bezdek said: "It's a tough proposition to ask one pitcher to keep a club in the race, and any manager who follows this course is traveling on a narrow path." Like many more problems in baseball, this one was made for discussion.

"WILD BILL" DONOVAN CLAIMS HE WAS ONE TO BRING OUT TY RAYMOND-COBB

Ty Cobb, Hughie Jennings and "Wild Bill" Donovan.

When you are in a little group of fans and the talk is frittering away almost to a dead silence a good way to knock them all cold is to loudly announce: "I discovered Ty Cobb," or "I hadn't been for me Eddie Collins would be selling him sandwiches on the B. & O." But anyway, Wild Bill Donovan comes out with the announcement that he was the real Edison who gave Ty Cobb to the baseball world. Harkens to William:

Made Jennings Laugh.
"It was way back in 1915 when Detroit was training in Augusta, Ga., and the captain was a regular busher. Ty attracted little attention, for he was a terrible fielder and tried to run through the fence in every game. Hughie Jennings used to laugh every time Cobb ran out on the field, for there was nothing about him that even suggested a future star. His hitting was of the bush league variety, and when an outfielder can't hit it's time to forget all about him."

"Detroit had a chance that year to get Cobb for nothing, for the Augusta club had made a deal with Jennings whereby he would have the privilege of selecting any player on the team if his ball club did its spring training in Augusta. To show what a hit Cobb made, Clyde Engle, the infielder, was chosen and Tyrus the Great allowed to remain in the tall grass.

Busher Rostered on First.
"I never forgot Cobb," said Donovan, "for one day when I was pitching he hit a ball to me and I had to run toward third base to field it. It wasn't a hard-hit ball, so I took my time, but before I could straighten up to throw to first you can imagine my surprise when I saw that busher rooting on the bag. Never before had I seen such speedy traveling toward first base, and I remembered it."

"Later in the season one of our outfielders went bad and I suggested to Jennings that he take a chance with that fast guy down in Augusta. Jennings wired down there and a reply came back that Cobb would not be sent North unless the Detroit club purchased him for $750. President Navin sent them the money and Cobb was signed by Detroit."

"The first year, as you know, Ty did not set the world afire, but barely got by. There was a noticeable improvement the next season, and now look at him. At the same time, I attribute the speedy journey to first base that day in Augusta to Cobb's joining the Detroit club."

PETAUN AS A BASEBALL FAN

Marshal of France Forgets His Duty and Watches Exciting Game—Autographs Ball.

How Marshal Petaun of the French army ducked the time clock to witness a ball game is the story brought back to this country by W. C. Mullen, former manager of the Dubuque team in the Three-I league, who has returned after spending six months as a K. of K. secretary with the Thirty-eighth division overseas.

The game was between engineers (some of the Fifty-sixth engineers at St. Nazaire, Marshal Petaun was crossing the lot with fellow officers. He knows the American game, and played to watch it for a few moments. The game was exciting. The marshal remained. His duty was forgotten as the game went on into extra innings. 20,000 men vociferously applauding. The game ended with a 6-5 score, and Marshal Petaun, enthusiastic, came to Mullen, umpiring the game, and autographed the ball in play at the field. Then the marshal telephoned his orderly to punch the headquarters time clock for him.

A San Francisco woman has sued for divorce, alleging cruelty because her husband won't let her attend ball games.

WORLD IS MADE SAFE FOR BASEBALL GAME

At Least 100,000 More Players Because of Late War.

Grover Cleveland Alexander and "Rabbit" Maranville Came Over Recently and Given Warm Reception—Biggest Year.

The war has made the world safe for baseball.

There are twice as many ball players as there were before the war. The war got busy in the big world's series along the Rhine.

If you want figures to be convinced, harken to Tom Nokes, secretary of the National Baseball federation:

"I think it is safe to say, from a federation standpoint, there are 50 per cent more teams this spring than there were three years ago."

And only a part of our soldiers have come back from France. Nearly all of them played ball in the army. The ones who hadn't donned a mitt for years went back to play when they were sent to camp. Others who never played learned. The ones who always played kept on playing. They will want to keep it up.

"Rabbit" Maranville.

It is more conservative to say, we believe there are at least 100,000 more ball players as a result of the war. They're pouring back from overseas.

Grover Cleveland Alexander.

Grover Cleveland Alexander and Rabbit Maranville came in a few days ago. They were bearded with much ado. But on the same boat came other players—some who weren't players when they went in the army. The big amateur baseball body of which Nokes is the working head is planning for 1920.

Your enjoyment of Camels will be very great because their refreshing flavor and fragrance and mellowness is so enticingly different. You never tasted such a cigarette! Bitter is eliminated and there is a cheerful absence of any unpleasant cigarette after-taste or any unpleasant cigarette odor!

Camels are made of an expert blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos and are smooth and mild, but have that desirable full-body and certainly hand out satisfaction in generous measure. You will prefer this Camel blend to either kind of tobacco smoked straight!

Give Camels the stiffest tryout, then compare them with any cigarette in the world at any price for quality, flavor, satisfaction. No matter how liberally you smoke Camels they will not tire your taste!

THE NON-RESIDENT ALIEN INCOME TAX RULES INTERPRETED

Commissioner Roper Clears Up
Meaning of Doubtful Provisions.

WHAT EMPLOYERS MUST DO

In Order to Comply With the Many Articles of the Law; Who Are "Residents" and "Transients" Within the Meaning of Act; Employers' Proof.

Commissioner Roper, in a communication to W. B. Reed, accounting secretary of the National Coal Association, has given an exposition of the provisions of the new revenue law which relate to the payment of income tax by aliens which will be of interest to coal and coke operators and others employing this class of labor. The questions, to which answers are made by Commissioner Roper, are as follows:

1. For what years will the department attempt to make collection of such items?

2. In the absence of any record now existing as to the nationality or intentions of employees who have left the service of a person or corporation which employed them during past years, what action on the part of the employers will be necessary to relieve them from any further liability for this tax? Is not the burden of proof on the government in this case?

3. Will a canvass of the present employees with a view to ascertaining their nationality or intentions of becoming resident taxpayers, and a collection of the taxes due from them be a satisfactory solution of the case? If so, how far back should employers attempt to make this collection?

4. It is customary in a great many mining districts to let out a certain portion of a mine to some miner who is usually termed a contractor who employs additional labor in the production of coal from the section of the mine assigned to him. These men, usually termed "buck hands," sometimes do not appear upon the payroll and are very frequently not officially known to the operator or employer. Who is responsible for the collection in this case, the operator or the contractor? The operator frequently does not know the amount of the earnings of the "buck hand" or laborer employed by the contractor and the latter usually keeps no books of account.

5. Many employees, not only in the mining industry but in other industries, are known only by number. Will it be necessary to ascertain their names and intentions as to residence? Does the failure of the employer to make such collections make him liable for the full amount of the tax? If so, how far back of the present will the department attempt to make collections, and in the absence of specific information as to the nationality of past employees, upon what evidence will they base their action during the past period?

Answering these questions in their order Commissioner Roper says:

"The department is not limited as to years in regard to investigations relative to the liability of employers to deduct income tax at the source from fixed or other determinable income paid to non-resident aliens as provided by the Revenue Act of 1918 and the acts for prior years. No effort will be made to hold employers of non-resident aliens liable for tax prior to the issuance of Treasury Decision 222, September 17, 1915, which defined a non-resident alien and not then if such non-resident alien had been employed continuously by the same person or corporation for a period of three months or more.

"Aliens employed in the United States are prima facie regarded as non-resident aliens, and in case where withholding has not occurred it will be necessary for the employer to furnish written proof of facts which overcome that presumption. The burden of proof is on the employer. The records of a corporation, such as the cancelled checks representing payment to its employees, and the pay rolls, are held to constitute written proof.

"If an alien has been living in the United States for as much as one year prior to the time he entered the employment of the withholding agent, or if he has been regularly employed by an individual resident in the United States, or by a resident corporation in the same city or county for as much as three months immediately prior to any payment by the employer he may be treated as a resident, in deciding as to the necessity of withholding part of such payment, provided no facts are known to the employer showing that he is in fact a transient.

"The facts with regard to the length of time the alien has thus lived in this country or has been so regularly employed may be established by the certificate of the alien. The employer may also obtain evidence to overcome the prima facie presumption of non-residence by securing from the alien Form 1078, revised, properly executed or an equivalent certificate of the alien establishing residence. Having secured such evidence from the alien, the employer may rely thereon unless, the statement of the alien was false, or he has reasonable cause to believe it was false and may continue to rely thereon until the alien ceases to be a resident.

"In case the owner or operator of a mine leases a portion thereof to a contractor whose operations are separate and distinct from that of the corporation, the individuals being actually employed by the contractor, the duty to withhold is that of the contractor and not of the corporation. "In every case where the employer is a non-resident alien, withholding is required, except for 1918, in which case a claim for exemption may be filed in accordance with the provisions of Article 307, Regulations 45. The name and address of such employee should be secured regardless of the fact that for the convenience of the operator, the individual is known by number.

"The employer who fails to withhold and account for income tax with respect to income paid to alien employees, may submit any evidence which will substantiate the fact that such employees are residents of the United States within the meaning of Articles 312 to 316 of Regulations 45. As to what action will be taken by the bureau in regard to the collection of income tax at the source, any investigations deemed necessary for the proper administration of the revenue acts will be made in order that taxpayers may satisfy their obligation to the government.

"In the case of aliens who have been employed by a corporation for a period of three months, such circumstances are held to constitute the individuals residents of the United States, for the purpose of withholding, and no further tax is required to be withheld at the end of the period provided no facts are known to the employer tending to show that the individual is a transient as described in Article 312, Regulations 45. The amount of tax withheld during the three months should not, however, be refunded to the employee, but should be included in the corporation's annual tax return of income tax withheld at the source."

JUNE COURT ENDS; LONG LIST FOR THE SEPTEMBER TERM

Insanity Plea Is Ignored by Jury in Case of Italian Charged With Numerous Crimes.

Trials of criminal cases in the June term of court in Uniontown came to a close Saturday afternoon with Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen, E. H. Reppert and J. C. Work on the bench until late in the afternoon in the three court rooms. While the weekly session of court will be held as usual during the summer there will be no more jury trials until September when will commence one of the longest periods of trials in the history of the court continuing from the first week in September until the last week in December. The first three weeks of the September term will be devoted to criminal court. Nine weeks of common pleas or civil court will follow immediately. There have been no jury trials in civil court for two years which has resulted in a piling up of cases on the calendar.

Despite a plea of insanity and his actions in court to support it a jury Saturday afternoon found Rocco Verdi guilty upon many charges. On trial with him was Lorenzo Paozino who earlier last week was convicted of shooting Constable Harry Hart at Fairchance. Both Italians were found guilty of entering a store with intent to commit a felony, larceny, assault, pointing firearms and carrying concealed weapons. They were acquitted of breaking and entering, burglary, larceny and receiving stolen goods. They were found guilty of entering the store of Paul Angelo at Searights and stealing $900 worth of automobile tires. The jury, however, concluded that they were not implicated in the robbery of Regolo Uralic's store at Republic from which some woolen patterns were taken. The patterns were recovered in Fairchance at the time of the gun fight between the Italians and the officers.
